

Wright Is Nominated As Envoy to Taipei

President Kennedy today formally nominated Admiral Jerauld Wright, retired former supreme commander of NATO forces in the Atlantic, to be Ambassador to Nationalist China.

The President had announced on April 5 that he intended to name Admiral Wright, who has been serving as a member of the Central Intelligence Agency's Board of Intelligence Estimates, to succeed Admiral Aian Kirk, who has resigned because of ill health.